

JUST CLEANINGS

FAIR ENOUGH

In the book about the life of C. E. Rhodes, famous Edmontonian, is a story about a judge who was called upon to settle a dispute between two brothers about an inheritance of land. Said the wise old judge: "Let one brother divide the land, and let the other brother have the first choice."

METROPOLITAN SPORTSMAN

A friend of ours saw a strange man last Sunday just at dawn. He was treading up Park Avenue in his way home. Somewhere in the Seventies his cab overtook a Department of Sanitation truck, which was battling along as fast as it could go. The night's task had included a discarded polo mallet, which was now in the competent hands of one of the rubbish collectors. He was standing on the running board and, with well-timed, powerful stooping, was in the air ahead of the truck. The driver of the truck, who was following him in his eyes, was following the only crying, "Aha! stuff! Tommy Hitchcock!"—The New Yorker.

MUSINGS ON AN ONLOOKER

HONESTY

"Honesty is the best policy." Many lessons have been taught on this wise old adage, many mothers have sought to instill it into their children, many people have suffered through their failure to recognize the wisdom wrapped up in those few words, yet many people in this enlightened age fail to put into practice what they believe to be true.

Undoubtedly one of the reasons why the English speaking people become the world's greatest traders and best business men was because they recognized that honesty and fair-play was necessary. They knew that honesty and fair-play that trade would be very difficult, that customers would be very few and far between and to keep.

The same is true today more than ever before because trade is more important and necessary now than ever in the world's history. If I have a good customer I must be honest with him and with myself in this advertisement. I want to gain a new customer he will want to feel that if he is going to trade continually with me that he can be assured of fair play.

So if I buy from a merchant—in town I want to know that the goods he sells me are as he represents them—that I can depend on his word and that I am paying only a reasonable price for what I obtain. Conversely the merchant wants to be assured that if he gives me the goods on credit that I will be honest and carry out my promise to pay. Too many forget this.

Honesty is not only the best policy, it is the only policy for a person who wants to continue doing business, to get credit, and have as his friends those with whom he deals.

All the supplies passing through its hands are donated without charge to anyone. The organization has never made a profit from any of its dealings. THE WORLD OF WHEAT REVIEWED WEEKLY BY MAJOR H.G.L. STANGE

Viccount Gort, Commander-in-Chief of the British Army in France, has witnessed his belief that men and not machines will win the war. This is the opinion of the great commander of the past; and military history reveals that it was the infantryman, with his bayonet, or the ancient foot soldier with his sword, who finally won battles. War machines such as armored cars, tanks, and aircraft, all of course, now render valuable help, but it is the foot soldier who will decide the final issue.

But just as war machines require fuel in the shape of good soil, so will Viccount Gort's men require fuel in the shape of good food. The last war showed unquestionably that the German soldiers' terrible end were severely weakened by poor food, by their tough indigestible black bread; that the British soldiers maintained their full vigor to the last, mainly because they had an ample supply of excellent white bread—without any bran or shorts in it—and made to a great extent from high quality Canadian wheat.

Great Britain and her Allies now have command of the greatest part of the world's good food and good wheat, which is a fortunate thing for all of us.

THE JAPANESE HAVE A WAY

The Japanese seem to have hit on a good, practical scheme for selling their goods in the world market. They just change the name of their manufacturing towns to suit the world market's taste. For example, when the Swedish match manufacturers patented the trade-mark, "Made in Sweden," and it became evident that lots of people like to scratch Swedish matches, the Japanese quickly renamed one of their numerous islands "Sweden," and made matches there.

Of course, eventually they have re-christened one of their native villages "Macdonald," and now sell the silk manufactured there as "Macdonald silk." This did away with any little prejudices that English buyers might have against Japanese silk.

A Basic Problem

While much has been said of the importance of the use of fire prevention methods in the bush country because of the enormous damage caused to one of the most valuable resources of the country, timber, as the result of uncurbed conflagrations, little thought has been given to the fact that such fires occasion other and irreparable loss.

Reference is made particularly to the destruction of valuable wild life as a result of fires raging through bush areas and particularly in the northern reaches of these prairie provinces.

Evidence that forest fires speed destruction to wild food and fur bearing animals to a staggering extent is brought to the attention of the world at large by biologists and engineers working in the employ of Ducks Unlimited in the hinterland of Alberta, as reported by Wendell Borthwick in a recent issue of Forest and Outdoors, official publication of the Canadian Forestry Association.

The tremendous loss of wild life and of valuable timber resulting from carelessness and insufficient protection in the forests of the great Northland regions of the prairie provinces indicates the necessity for greater precautions being taken in the future if this wonderful heritage is to be conserved to the use of present and succeeding generations and for the pleasure and sport of the people of this country and visitors from outside.

A few extracts from Mr. Borthwick's article will constitute a revelation to the great majority of the people in the more populous areas of the west and should awaken them to the absolute necessity for greater and more effective conservation measures. For instance, to quote Mr. Borthwick:

Sixty Per Cent. Destroyed

"Last winter, when Ducks Unlimited engineers and wild life technicians recomputed destroyed birdland, and the losses for the year, the results of study and development as wild life production centers at MacKay Lakes and Gordon Lake—Dr. A. D. Bajkov, aquatic biologist, reported that 60 per cent. of the forest in the adjacent region had been destroyed by recent fires. Working on the same premises during the winter and the spring, Ducks Unlimited parties had some hot times, fighting fires that broke up from the underlying muskeg between the snow- and threatened camps and lives.

"Fires were particularly prevalent this season in the Northland—due to light rainfall and persistent drying up of surface waters. All summer the men on the D.U. projects have worked for the control of fires. Lloyd Bunting, engineer in charge of development work at Gordon Lake reports that, during June, 38 per cent. of the crew's time was required to fight fires. "Up to the time of reporting, while fire had blazed big stretches outside, they had succeeded in keeping fires from destroying any large strips of nesting areas within the project. The tremendous efforts necessary to achieve this indicate that the numbers of nesting ducks and ducklings destroyed in the destructive action of fire in previous seasons must have reached staggering totals. Roaming, unchecked, over vast expanses of the Northland—these fires leave drastic evidence of their killing power in blackened forests, where many birds and one eagle and one osprey, in fin or feather; and in starving animals whose pots hang empty over dead fires."

Will Lose Everything

Again, to quote Colonel Newcomen in a report after he had inspected D.U. projects:

"Before I left for Gordon Lake I heard that fire was burning all around that region. When we flew over Gordon Lake I could see three fires, one southeast of Garson Lake, approximately on the Alberta-Saskatchewan border; one east of Gypsy Lake, one block and one right in the centre of Gordon Lake, on the point where I camped last winter. . . . The fire burning on the boundary of our Gordon Lake project would cover some three miles from front. It is impossible to describe how much damage it has already done. The fire east of Gypsy Lake must have covered about a mile frontage, where it was still burning. The damage done by the fire we fought on the point where our old camp was situated, I cannot estimate, since it was burning when I left. I wouldn't be surprised if the whole point was burned out and valuable timber lost and good cover destroyed.

"It is vital," says Col. Newcomen, "that fire control be organized here, so we do anything else, we will lose everything. Some of these fires may be set by careless hunters. They wander over land and water trails, they do not know how yet; and are gone. Then—fire. If they could only be brought to understand that these fires (most of them human-made) are the chief cause of wildlife depletion—and of their own empty bellies."

One could not better sum up a discourse on such a topic than to quote the words with which Mr. Borthwick concludes his article:

"The success of any program of developing the Northland to utilize its vast potential wealth of timber, waterfowl, big game, fur, fish and scenic assets, depends upon one simple basic problem: controlling fire and water."

Shape Of Human Frame

Apparently Has Something To Do With The Length Of Life

Human body shapes that add an average of about 25 years to life were reported to the National Academy of Sciences. All were for men only. This was not because feminine shapes may not have the same effects, but because the studies have not been made on women.

In general, it is said for a man to be far from the average American or Canadian in weight and chest size. Those who lean toward the over-weight class are taking more chances of premature death with the vapor than the men who tend to become skinny.

The study was made by Dr. Raymond Pearl of John Hopkins University, who a little more than a year ago made the report that "the study of the smoking habits of life. Collaborating with him was Dr. E. R. Mottet of John Hopkins. A new finding recently was that high pulse rate was a forecast of early deaths, including, curiously enough, accidents.

Elevated blood pressures, contrary to what most persons expect, were a sign of long life in the heart cases.

Unanimous Vote

The negro preacher's term had expired and he was anxious to stay on "Brother," he said, "the time has come for you all to elect a pastor for the church. I don't care for me, I will please any man."

He waited a moment and then he said, "I believe you give consent. You've got a pastor for another year."

It is theoretically possible for one of Australia's rabbits to have 20,000,000 descendants within five years.

Western Canada Fairs

Exhibition Association As Well As Fairs Organization To Meet At Winnipeg

Sid W. Johns, secretary-manager of the Saskatchewan exhibition, has announced dates of the main exhibition organizations.

As president of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions he will attend the annual meeting of that group for Dec. 5 and 6, at Chicago. The dates coincide with the International Livestock Show, also held at Chicago.

As secretary of the Western Canadian Association of Exhibitions, Mr. Johns announced the annual meeting of that body would be held at Winnipeg on Jan. 15, 16 and 17. At this meeting, attractions, midway and new features for the class A circuit in western Canada will be selected, and dates of the class A fairs, confirmed.

Mr. Johns said he had advocated, as past-president of the Canadian Association of Exhibitions, that that annual meeting of that organization be held at Ottawa from Nov. 20 to Dec. 1. Due to cancellation of the Toronto Royal Winter Fair, he believed it necessary to hold the meeting at Ottawa, where members could confer with the government respecting wartime activities. Mr. Johns asserted.

The Western Canada Fairs Association, which is composed of members from the B circuit, will meet in Winnipeg Jan. 15, 16 and 17, coinciding with the meeting of the Western Canadian Association of Exhibitions.

He was satisfied, Mr. Johns said, that all western Canada fairs would be conducted in 1940, despite the war conditions. Police would be justified, however, to conform with the changed conditions.

Studying Indian Customs

American Scientist Claims He Was Questioned By R.C. Police

Ernest Young, of Wheaton, Ill., who has been studying Indian customs in British Columbia and Alberta during the summer, has a war story to tell his friends. He claims he was detained as a suspected spy by British Columbia provincial police.

"They must have seen me excavating near an Indian village near Prince Rupert," he said in an interview at Edmonton. "Anyway, they arrested me, questioned me for an hour, and then they released me. Young did considerable excavating in search of buried Indian relics. He reported he had discovered several old coastal Indian customs which have not been noted in research books.

He is a graduate of Wheaton College and conducted the Indian research for the department of anthropology of the Illinois college.

Demand Is Steady

Man Finds It Easy To Sell Refrigerators To Eskimos

Harold Olsen says there is nothing tough about selling an ice box to an Eskimo. In fact, he said, he and his brother will sell them at their Bethel, Alaska, trading post. Visiting at Chitina, Iowa, Olsen explained there actually is a demand among Eskimos for ice boxes since supplies are received in the summer and perishables must be kept cool.

Interested In Veterans

Touching Incidents Of Royal Tour In Canada Are Recalled

Interesting and touching incidents which occurred during the royal tour in Canada last spring were recalled in an address in Guelph by Mrs. N. P. Pyper, a member of the press, who covered the visit of their Majesties.

Mrs. Pyper recalled that the Queen approached one veteran during the journey, and said, "I have seen you before." But the veteran knew that it was not so, "You were with my brother in the same international camp in the same hospital. It turned out that that was so and the Queen had seen the man's face only in a picture that had been sent her by his brother.

Mrs. Pyper felt that the death of one brother and the experiences of the others of five brothers had so impressed the youthful Elizabeth that her love for the veterans was a tremendous power. On the return trip from Vancouver, the King and Queen were to see in the station the veterans of the last war. There was one, with arms, who had tied about his neck a string of arms, a shawl. The Queen approached him and, with much sympathy, she passed him a handkerchief, an expression of pity and sympathy. Then he was back stiffened and she turned to him again. She passed her hands gently down his face.

With tears streaming down his face, the veteran said: "I didn't think your Majesty would do that to me." She replied: "You couldn't touch me, so I touched you."

Hard To Go Without

Houses In Germany Have To Use Substitutes For Soap

There are stories that come out of Germany now and again that are not merely propaganda. They are from American correspondents who have been within the limits of censorship, and without the limits of what the Nazi officials are delighted to show them, provide little stories in the wind that lie beyond denial.

Take the latest one about soap. The country is so valuable a luxury in Germany to-day, as it was in the late years of the World War. Consequently have been informed by the "research" group of the German Women's War Organization of Leipzig that an ersatz laundry system has been found to give fine results. Water, in which potato peels have been lengthily soaked, is recommended for things not too lightly colored, and water in which ivy leaves have been cooked is advised for woollens and gloves—Hamilton Spectator.

B.B.C. Makes It Possible For Soldiers To Broadcast Home

With the British "Expeditionary Force in France," (Praised by Field Marshal)—For the first time in history, British soldiers in active service abroad are going to broadcast to the folks back home.

The British Broadcasting Company has brought equipment to the army's general headquarters and plans eventually to broadcast Canadian battles on the French-German border.

Meanwhile, the Tommies will broadcast incidents from their lives at the front, where they may pilloboxes, trenches and big guns. In this manner, mothers "somewhere in Great Britain" will hear the voices of some "somewhere in France."

They know that they are safe and learn as much as the soldiers are permitted to tell of army life in this war. The B.B.C. has a mobile unit equipped for direct broadcasts, but direct broadcasts will be made on the first plane and put on the radio.

The first plane is to be made at the front line.

Population Of The World

Writer Estimates That There Are Now 1,500,000,000 People

A statistically minded friend estimates that the entire population of the world could be comfortably housed in Illinois. Assuming that there are 1,500,000,000 people on the planet, each would have 1,000 square feet of space within the boundaries of the State. If five constituted a family they could occupy a lot 50 by 100 feet. The calculation does not allow for stores, stores or factories, but if part of the people were housed in skyscraper hotels and apartment buildings, the world would be left for the usual accessories of a civilized community.—W. Feather in "The Santa Fe Magazine."

The typical of the British spirit is the fact that Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C., has at the age of 50 given up one of the most lucrative law practices in London in order to join the Royal Air Force.

The combined naval strength of Great Britain and France is five times that of Germany.

Met Lawrence Of Arabia

But Famous Soldier Was Not Recognized By Party Guests

Leonard Lyons, the New York Post says when Vincent Sheean first told to London he told his friend, Gordon Foster, that the man he was most anxious to meet was Lawrence of Arabia, Foster promised to arrange it, and two weeks later he invited Sheean to a cocktail party. The next day he asked: "Well, how'd you like Lawrence?" "But I never met him," Sheean protested. "Oh, yes, you did," his host assured. "That was Mr. Lawrence, the short man in the tweed suit. I introduced you to him."

"But he seemed so insignificant, no paid attention to him," Sheean lamented. "Why didn't you tell me that Mr. Lawrence was Lawrence of Arabia?" "He wouldn't let me," Foster explained. "He said he'd come only under such conditions because as plain Mr. Lawrence, he knew nobody'd bother him."

Loss For Great Pianist

Land Once Owned By Paderewski

One of the saddest figures in the world to-day is that of the famous pianist, Ignace Paderewski, with his beloved Poland gone and his health failing. . . . Just now we heard of another, smaller, but very real misfortune in Paderewski's life. Some years ago, during a concert tour on this continent, he invested most of his fortune in a nut-misting farm at Santa Maria, California. The enterprise failed and his big investment was lost. Recently, just as broken health cancelled what was to have been his final tour, he heard that the Santa Maria property, which used to belong to him, is now an old field, yielding millions. —Toronto Telegram.

A Scientific Fact

Air that's cooled to a temperature of 215 degrees below zero (Fahrenheit) will turn to liquid and, though it's hard for the layman to grasp, when that liquid air is further reduced to 310 degrees below zero, it starts to boil!

Though provided with fangs and poison glands, Orin vipers are so gentle that they make popular chums with the various parts of the Balkan states.

AIR AND SEA SUCCESSES HAVE CHEERED BRITONS

LONDON.—Striking air and sea successes cheered British hearts today, as discussed Prime Minister Chamberlain's outspoken remark in the House of Commons that there could be but one reply to Germany's actions and "we are prepared to give it."

The shattered wreck of a German submarine was washed up on the Dover strait shore called "Goodwin sands", and at almost the same time the air ministry announced that at least seven of 12 German aircraft failed to return to their home bases after an unsuccessful attack upon a British convoy in the North sea.

"As announced at the time, we had no losses," added the air ministry's communique on the air attack.

Boatmen at Deal, just opposite the treacherous Goodwin sands, which just off the southeast coast of Kent, said they located the stricken ship when its conning tower stuck out of the water.

Chatter has been heard off Deal but a heavy mist prevented sight of any action.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax told an attentive house of lords that Russia would not have jumped into Poland with the red army "if the German government had not started it had set the example."

In addition, the foreign secretary said, it should be remembered that the Russian army stopped at the substantially the Polish-Russian boundary which was recommended to the League conference by Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary at that time.

But Lord Halifax hastened to add: "The last thing I would wish to do in this matter would be to defend the action of the Soviet government at the particular time."

Without referring to Russia's protest at the inclusion of foodstuffs in the British government's contraband list, Lord Halifax said that the move was being given to broadening the scope of Anglo-Soviet trade "since they now appear willing to trade impartially with all belligerents."

This would not only be of comfort to British exporters but would have the wider advantage of diverting Russian products from German markets.

British troops issued the first general call for volunteers since the war began. A war office announcement said voluntary enlistment was being opened for cavalry, infantry, artillery and engineers. Previously enlisted of only specialized classes had been asked.

Age limits for volunteers were set at 18 to 35 years in the west, 18 to 20 to 35 years in Northern Ireland. After acceptance on the first roll those enlisted will be sent home with orders to report Nov. 15.

Campaign Of Hate

Nazi Plans For Stirring Up Antipathy Against Britain

Zurich, Switzerland.—An informant whose knowledge of Nazi activities in the Reich is unusually authoritative said that Adolf Hitler discussed with his direct leaders during his conference recent plans for stirring up a "hate campaign" against Great Britain.

Hitler, he said, told subordinates that Germany is now going to devote a determined effort to this campaign and that the time has come to teach England "a severe lesson."

Germany, other sources indicate, is turning on the full force of its propaganda campaign against Britain, very much like the "Gott strafe England" campaign of the first Great War.

Russian Stand

Inform Great Britain That Contraband List Violates Law

Moscow.—Soviet Russia informed Great Britain that she considered the British contraband list a violation of the principles of international law.

The Russian stand was set forth in a statement which the Soviet news agency, said the assistant commissar of foreign affairs, Vladimir Potemkin, handed to the British ambassador, Sir William Beech.

The Russian note, replying to Great Britain's notification of her contraband list, said:

"The people's commissariat of foreign affairs, on instructions of the government of the U.S.S.R., has the honor to state the following:

"The announcement by unilateral act of the British government list of goods proclaimed was contraband in the note of Sept. 6 violates the principles of international law which found their general expression in the international declaration of regulations of naval warfare of Feb. 26, 1909, governing the interests of neutral countries and destroys international trade.

"By including in its lists of contraband such articles and goods as fuel, paper, cotton, fodder for agricultural animals, footwear, clothing and even all foodstuffs—bread, meat, butter, sugar and other foodstuffs—this unilateral act of the British government is in fact proclaiming contraband basic articles of mass consumption and creates the possibility of universal arbitrariness in classing all articles of popular consumption as war contraband.

"This necessity for the profound disorganization of the supply of the peaceful civil population with necessary goods, gravely endangers the health and lives of the peaceful population and portends innumerable calamities for the masses of people.

"It is known that universally recognized principles of international law do not permit air bombardment of peaceful populations of women, children and aged people.

"On the same grounds, the Soviet government deems it not permissible to deprive peaceful populations of foodstuffs, fuel and clothing and thus subject children, women and aged people and invalids to every hardship and to starvation by proclaiming goods of popular consumption as war contraband.

"Proceeding from the above, the Soviet government declares that it does not agree to the contraband list of the British government of Sept. 6 and refuses to recognize any validity of this note."

Remembrance Day

Must Be Observed With Due Solemnity

Toronto.—Remembrance Day must be observed with added solemnity this year because of the present war and because of the "long care" shown by the King and Queen to veterans of the first Great War during the course of the "long care" shown to all branches of the Canadian Legion said.

The message was sent by V. Wray Fairweather, honorary secretary of the Ontario provincial poppy committee, to the Ontario provincial poppy committee.

He said that each Remembrance Day, millions of poppies, proceeds of which go to care for needy veterans and their families.

The report of last year's distribution of the poppy fund showed that of every dollar collected, 74 cents was given for relief of veterans and their families, 11 cents went for labor and manufacturing costs, and the balance for service, campaign expenses and other overhead.

Increase Food Production

Grasslands On Royal Estates Are Being Planted

LONDON.—Measures approved by the King for increasing production of food on his private estates were announced by the ministry of agriculture.

In response to the government's appeal early this year for increased domestic food production, 50 acres of grassland were put under plow at the King's Sandringham estate. Since the outbreak of war an additional 50 acres have been, or are about to be, plowed.

Permission has been given for 90 acres of grassland at Norfolk park, to be plowed.

The royal garden of all the King's estates will plant a considerable area in vegetables.

Alberta's First Entry

Chicago.—Alberta's first entry for the international garden and hay show, to be held at the Chicago stock yards Dec. 2 to 9 in connection with the International Livestock Exposition, was made recently by Tom Mynack, of Denjaria. He will exhibit Victory cuts.

New Railway Equipment

Contracts Amounting To $25,000,000 Have Been Announced At Ottawa

Ottawa.—Contracts for about 2,000,000 of railway equipment required by the war emergency have been announced by the defence purchasing board.

The orders are divided between the two railways, about $15,000,000 to the Canadian National Railways and $10,000,000 to the Canadian Pacific Railway. The orders amount to 4,075 freight cars, of which 2,575 go to Canadian National. The order includes 49 locomotives.

QUEBEC SHOWS CANADA IS UNITED IN WAR EFFORT

Ottawa.—Prime Minister MacKenzie King paid warm tribute to the Quebecers for the part they have contributed to the Liberal victory in their home province.

"No greater service has been rendered Canada since confederation," the prime minister said. "They have earned and will be gladly accept the gratitude of all Canadians."

He was referring to R. Hon. Ernest Bennett, minister of agriculture, Hon. C. G. Power, postmaster-general, and Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, minister of public works, who entered the campaign with a pledge to resign from the government if the Union Nationale party of Premier Duplessis won the election.

"It is impossible to exaggerate the significance of the Liberal victory," Mr. Bennett said. "The Quebecers, a significant political battle has been fought in the history of Canada."

"It has shown above all that the people of Quebec are as one with their fellow Canadians in the other provinces in the determination that a united Canada shall co-operate to the side of Britain and France in the war to defend freedom and resist aggression."

Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, who took no part in the campaign, said the people of Quebec had now declared themselves as supporters of the attitude on the government's war policy taken by the great majority of all parties in the House of Commons.

"That makes it almost unanimous," Dr. Manion said. "There is no longer an issue. Now let us get on with the war. Let the Canadian government now make a real effort to see that Canada is doing her bit in a manner worthy of her past."

Quebec.—Premier-elect Adolphe Godbout thanked Quebec electors for the "unqualified testimony of confidence" which restored to the Liberal party the reins of government it held for nearly 40 years before the Union Nationale landslide of 1936.

Dr. Manion said that the Union Nationale unassisted the Liberal, spoke in English and French over a provincial network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

He said the outcome of the election constituted "not only a vote of confidence in the provincial Liberal party, but also an appreciation of the stand taken by Liberal leaders in the federal field."

"The administration of this province will require much work and I am fully aware of the responsibility which has fallen upon me," he said.

"Particularly in the financial field much work has to be done to place this province in good standing as we want to do."

Friendly Relations

Senator Borah Says U.S. Greatly Respects And Admires Canadians

Washington.—Relations between the United States and Canada are so friendly, in the opinion of Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), there's no use in trying to improve them.

Borah told the senate a number of Canadians had asked him to try to do so. He inserted one of his replies in the congressional record, saying: "Let's travel along undisturbed the path which has so gloriously marked out for ourselves, peace, friendship and commerce, with just a little modification of our old agreements, if you find it possible to let us have it. But we will not quarrel with you even about that."

Part of a letter Senator Borah sent Miss Helen McPherson of Vulcan, Ala., follows:

"I have your letter and have read it, not only with deep interest, but in complete sympathy with your views as to the relations which should obtain between your country and mine.

"And I venture to declare, without the slightest doubt as to the correctness of my statement, that the people of the United States, not only greatly respect and admire our Canadian neighbors, but they trust them as few people ever trusted apostrophically people. There are no seeds of estrangement anywhere in this country that I know of, no reason for distrust, and no occasion for circulating the possibilities of trouble.

"Are not the relations between our countries without precedent, no fears, no hatred, no enmity, no distrust, on either side of the border line? Why debate, or discuss the subject? Let's leave it all to the people. The people of the United States and Canada will have no trouble and will get along as amicably as they have in the past, if they are just permitted to go their own way and attend to their own business."

Direct Hit

Claim German Battleship Split In Two By British Bomb

Oslo.—An eyewitness quoted by the newspaper Arbeiderbladet claimed the German battleship Gneisenau was split in two by a direct hit from a British air bomb during the Royal Air Force raid on Wilhelmshaven Sept. 4, the second day of the war.

The 31,000-ton Gneisenau was launched in May, 1938. It was the second full-sized battleship to be laid down by Germany since the Great War.

Its launching took place after the warship had been badly damaged in an earlier attempt to place it in service. The battleship crashed into a dock in an attempted launching in December, 1936. It is a sister ship to the Schamhorst, launched in October, 1938.

UNITY OF PURPOSE IS MANIFESTED IN SPIRIT OF EMPIRE

London.—Anthony Eden, dominion secretary, broadcast to the Empire the patchwork pattern of armed force must be utterly unacceptable to us and therefore the Empire must be united in a single government agency. A condition whereby many small enterprises were competing in the sale of wheat to a single buyer could not benefit the farmer.

Outlining the unity of purpose manifested in the Empire's war effort, the dominion secretary announced Great Britain's aim, and the aim of the whole Allied front, to be the unification of the Empire in the spirit of the world's peace, the denial and not the worship of aggressive nationalism; liberty, security and peace.

"It is not because we love war," declared the statesman who himself served in France for four years in the first Great War, "but because we hate it that we are determined to go on this until we have finally made an end."

With the immediate response which came from the overseas Empire on the outbreak of the war still fresh in their memory, Mr. Eden said the British government held great store for the unity of the Empire, and he had vowed to be held very shortly in London between dominion ministers and the British authorities.

Mr. Eden spoke of the scheme by which Canada will be used as the air force training centre of the Empire in an action with no parallel in the world's history.

"We shall thus be assured of a constant supply of pilots and other air personnel of an exceptionally high standard in skill and daring," he said.

He reiterated that it had not been Great Britain's desire to plunge the world into war, but, on the contrary, "this war has been thrust upon us."

"Even so we are not fighting against any one, nor for any given frontier, but in support of a principle. The Nazi leaders are loud in their declaration that this war was thrust upon them. The evidence is to the contrary."

"Documents have been published from which the world can judge, but in truth there is more striking testimony than even the best authentic documents can provide. In Warsaw, as in Prague and in scores of other cities, German troops stand as invaders today. Each one of them is there in defiance of the German character's pledged word. Each is a living token of the German government's broken faith."

London.—The British government told the public in effect today: "The year Christmas shopping late—there's a war loan coming."

A PARITY PRICE FOR WHEAT HAS BEEN AGREED UPON

Saskatoon.—Agreement between the federal government and the Saskatchewan wheat pool upon the main issue confronting Canadian agriculture in the present war was reached at a recent Ottawa meeting, said J. H. Wesman of Regina, president of the wheat pool, in an address to delegates attending the annual convention of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, here.

"It was agreed, said Mr. Wesman, that Canadian farmers must be guaranteed a 'parity price,' which the pool interpreted as the cost of production of agricultural products.

Personally, he did not believe that a set wartime price for wheat at, say, $1.10 per bushel would guarantee production of wheat at a correct price of wheat and other products depended upon the cost of farm operation, he said.

Nazi Threat

May Attempt To Show Bomb's Berlin.—A threat that Germany's next war move probably would be an attempt to show bombs on England, was authorized by the German newspaper National Zeitung of Berlin.

This daily is known to be especially close to Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Nazi air minister.

The moment has come when the war against England must be waged down upon the British Isles itself, National Zeitung said.

The patience of a people has limits. In their boundless indignation the German people to a man only turn against the British war criminals in order, by a fight which hereafter will be relentless, to create the necessary guarantees for their security from such irresponsible machinations."

Contributes Large Sum

Indian Prince Offers $50,000 Monthly

London.—The Nizam of Hyderabad, fabulously wealthy Indian prince, has offered the Victoria and Albert Museum a sum of £11,250 ($50,000) towards the cost of maintaining cavalry and infantry units of the Hyderabad state, which may be called on for service outside the state. It was officially announced.

The Nizam already has made a cash contribution of £100,000 ($417,000) to the air ministry for aerial warfare. He gave a similar sum for anti-submarine warfare in 1937.

SUPPORT THE RED CROSS

A branch of the Red Cross Society has been formed at Carbon and its main object will be to raise funds to provide comforts for soldiers overseas. It is to the Red Cross that the main contributions of the people of Canada will be made to help along the war. Under the present arrangements it will be through the Red Cross Society which is in time of war an auxiliary of the Medical Corps, that those who remain at home can aid the country most, and it is hoped that the response for funds will be generous when the provincial campaign gets under way on November 13.

A Welsh farmer met another farmer in the dining car of the train and got into conversation. "Of course, you are from Wales," said the one. The Welshman admitted that he was and asked why the question had been asked. "Oh, I was just accounting for your accent," was the reply. "And where do you come from?" asked the Welshman. "Worcester," said the other. "Ah, well," commented his companion, "that accounts for your accent."

The trouble with some flappers is that they have a face like a rose, but a figure like a cabbage.

In the old days a wife kissed her husband when he got home—it meant affection.

Now—it may mean investigation.

Dieting nowadays is nothing new. Why in the middle ages they even made the Tower of Pisa lean.

"I can't marry him, mother. He's an idiot, and doesn't believe there's a hell."

"Marry him, my dear, and between us we'll convince him that he's wrong."

Captain: "Have you cleaned the deck?"
Sailor: "Yes, sir, and I've swept the horizon with my telescope."

Jackie: "Daddy, you just sold a lot of 'see and sell'—a 'would you be'—political pie. What is political pie?"

Dad: "Well, son, it's composed of applause and plums."

Judge: "What brought you here?"
Accused: "Two policemen."

Accused: "Both of them."

AN OUTSTANDING COMBINATION

To get the most for your money and the best flavor in your dishes, get into the habit of combining natural Canadian foods. Canadian products are invariably cheaper than imported foods, and the use of them stimulates Canadian agriculture, manufacturing and commerce. A very important point to remember now that we are at war, apples and fish are two outstanding examples of foods which can be combined in an appetizing, inexpensive and thoroughly Canadian dish.

FISH WITH APPLES—

2 lbs. fish fillets or steaks about 5-8 inches thick.

2 1/2 lbs. apples (about 9 med. size), 3 tbsp. butter or cooking fat.

2 tbsp. water; 1/2 tsp. salt.

1 tsp. sugar.

Basting oil made by mixing black pepper with 4 tbsp. melted butter.

Cover fish with a salt solution made in the proportion of 2 tbsp. salt to 1 cup cold water and allow to stand 3 minutes and drain.

Heat slowly 3 tbsp. fat in a deep frying pan. Wash, quarter, and core apples and slice to 1/2 in. thick. Place the apples in the hot fat, adding the water, salt and sugar. Cover lightly until apples are almost tender. Lay the fish on the apple cover and allow to steam 3 to 5 minutes. Remove cover and turn fish, basting it with the butter mixture, and place for 5 to 10 minutes under the broiler until well browned. Remove the fish to a hot platter and surround with the apples.
